Inteck, Inc. and Steelgate Technologies Strategic Alliance Announcement

DENVER, COLORADO, November 7, 2006 — Inteck, an information technology (IT) consulting firm for the healthcare industry, and Steelgate Technologies is proud to announce a strategic alliance between two leaders in the healthcare industry to offer Disaster Recovery Planning and EMR bundled solutions to private practices, hospitals, and other various providers of healthcare services. This partnership will greatly enhance the end users ability to concentrate all of it's required software platforms necessary in operating a successful practice under all rules and policies set forth by government regulatory agencies.

Steelgate Technologies provides practitioners with a long-term, fully automated, online backup strategy for their patient's healthcare records. Steelgate's user-friendly software encrypts EMR/EHR or any mission critical files to a private and secured off-site location with the highest level of encryption available today at 448-Bit. Online off-site backup software has become a very secured and more efficient alternative to the old-fashioned, unreliable tape or disc backup systems which are susceptible to hardware and software failures. Such hardware devices are extremely vulnerable to viruses, worms and Spyware thus corrupting the entire storage device and all of it's vital data. Steelgate Technologies Online Off-site Backup Software is an affordable and hassle free solution to safely archive and protect all of your critical data to help ensure that your medical practice is fully compliant under the HIPAA Act.
